Population

At the 2002 census, 50.4% of inhabitants were Hungarians, 47.5% Romanians and 2.1% Roma. 48.6% were Romanian Orthodox, 33.3% Reformed and 16.6% Baptist.

History

Coșeiu is located about 18 km from the county seat Zalău. The earliest document to mention it dates to 1345, where it is called Kusal. In 1432 Kwsal, 1450 Kwssal, 1505 Kwssaly, 1549 Kwsaly, 1591 Kusalj, Kussally, Kusaj and in 1805 it was written as Coseiu.

Kusaly was the ancient estate of the Jakcsi family, the name is taken from here. The kusalyi Jakcs have risen fast, having held high offices in the coming centuries. Among the Jakcs descendants - whom the family name came from - George became the main royal treasurer in 1400, another of his children, Michael, between 1414 and 1428 Michael, later in 1437 he was the Voivode of Transylvania, then the espouse of Szekelyz. In 1444 Michael Jackh was also a Transylvanian voivode.

The family acquired estates in several counties, and held high offices in: Salaj, Satu Mare County, Szabolcs and Bereg counties as well. For example, in 1430 the Lord Lieutenant of the county Satu Mare was Laszlo Jakcs. In 1526, Michael Kusalyi Jackh attended the national assembly of Rakosi ambassador as the Diet of Bereg County.

The family name appears in documents in 1345 for the first time, and in the 1700–1800 years on the hilltops of the settlements traces of their castle can be seen.

In 1635 II. György Rákóczi Kusalyban donated a portion an estate to Stephan Serédi Krasna county lord lieutenant, the estate and the mansion soon became the property of the disloyal Szénási Mihaly, the captain of the field army.

In 1701 April 19, I Leopold King donated the kusalyi estate to baron Peter Serédi.

In 1910, 811, the majority of the inhabitants were Romanian, with a significant Hungarian minority.

In 1992, along with its neighboring villages, out of 1409 inhabitants 721 were Romanian, 672 Hungarian and 16 were Gypsy.

Pal and Janos Szatmari arrive in New York City on October 23, 1908

NOTE: In the 6th column it says "1903". This is in response to the question "Whether ever before in the United States; and if so when and where?" The answer "1903/Wisc. Milwaukee" means grandpa Paul Szatmary had already made a previous trip to the U.S. and lived in Milwaukee, in 1903. Below are illegible numbers (07?), so possibly Pal was in Milwaukee from 1903-1907, then went back to Hungary for his brother Janos in 1907, and returned the same year.

Hamburg Passenger Lists (Hamburger Passagierlisten, 1850-1934 available as a searchable database at Ancestry.com) were completed in Germany by clerks for the steamship line, using information from emigrants. The Germans were thorough about completing forms, so I have found far more of the all-important information about ancestral village names and birthplaces in these emigration records than I've found in the corresponding New York passenger arrival lists.

Ancestry helpfully notes that since the records are in German, it helps to search in German, and only the years 1877-1914 have been indexed at this point. They also suggest browsing the Handwritten Indexes, 1855-1934, if your ancestors have not yet been included in the index.

The questions asked of departing emigrants varied over time, but generally included the following:

1. Zuname (Surname)
2. Vorname (Forename)
3. Die zu einer Familie gehörenden Personen sind unter einander zu notiren und durch eine Klammer als zusammengehörig zu bezeichnen (Group family members together and designate using brackets)
4. Geschlect (Sex) mannlich weiblich (male female)
5. Alter (Age)
6. Bisheriger Wohnort (Previous place of residence)
7. Im Staate oder in der Provinz (State or Province)
8. Bisheriger Stand oder Beruf (Previous trade or profession)
9. Ziel der Auswanderung, Ort und Land ist anzugeben (Destination, specify place and country)
10. Zahl der Personen (Number of people)
11. Davon sind (Of these):Erwachsene und Kinder über 10 Jahre (Adults and children over 10 years)Kinder unter 10 Jahre (Children under 10 years)Kinder unter 1 Jahre (Children under 1 year)

Translating Hamburg Passenger List Categories

By Nancy Loe | 9 Mar 2016 | Databases, Genealogy, German Genealogy, Immigration Records, Prussian Genealogy, Translation | 0 Comments

Is your German a little rusty or perhaps even non-existent, but you are using that great resource database, the Hamburger Passagierlisten, 1850-1934?

Knowing and translating Hamburg Passenger List Categories before you search can be very helpful. Search both the departure lists in from Hamburg, as well as the arrival lists in New York or other U.S. ports. Before you decipher the German handwriting in a record your find, it helps to know what categories of information were used on the passenger list itself. The Daley Question

JANUARY 28, 2014

Q: Can you tell me anything about the Villa Moderne Nite Club from back in the 1940s and 1950s? We are trying to remember where it was located in the Chicagoland area and some of its history.

--Doris Ruchalski, Chicago

A: I was able to find some information about the Villa Moderne from the Tribune archives and online sources, but I'm sure there's a lot more to the story.

This is what can be found on the Highland Park Public Library Facebook page, alongside a beautifully atmospheric black-and-white photograph of the art deco club at night -- and its signature 25-foot-high Miller High Life beer bottle sign: "Once located on the southwest corner of Skokie Blvd. & County Line Rd., the Villa Moderne cafe-restaurant opened sometime around 1934 or 1935. The Art Deco hot spot featured Spanish Big Band leader Carlos Molina as well as Winnie Hoveler's unusual dance troupe, whose girls performed famous ballet numbers on swinging ladders. The second floor of the Villa Moderne was sometimes known for its closed door gambling via games of roulette and chuck-a-luck. The Villa Moderne was destroyed by a fire in 1956."

References in the Tribune to anniversary parties point to an opening on Halloween in 1934. Described in June 1939 as a "suburban café on the Skokie highway," the Villa Moderne was offering a "Tuesday South American Fiesta Night" with party favors, a "South American atmosphere" and free lessons in a new dance called "La Congra." In August 1941, Winnie Hoveler and her "dancing darlings," the troupe mentioned in the Highland Park library item, were featured in a Chicago Tribune story about the goings on at area clubs.

"This is not just a chorus line that is starring at Villa Moderne," wrote Will Davidson. 'It is an act -- a very versatile one. Every girl in this sextet is beautiful. Each one dances well, and is able to do a specialty when the production calls for it. As a unit, the girls can interpret a wide variety of native dance techniques -- for example, watch their beautifully costumed 'Gaucho Serenade' and the lively 'Viennese medley' -- or they can go into precision routines that are gems of technical perfection."

The Villa Moderne also turned up in hard news stories, too. "Gambling Raids Sweep N. Shore Pleasure Spots" was the headline to a Sept. 4, 1937, Tribune story. Among the places raided was the Villa Moderne, which, along with neighboring spots, were found "virtually deserted. No gambling was in progress." In an Aug. 22, 1939 story on lax enforcement of a ban on slot machines, the Tribune reported that the machines were "whirring merrily" across Cook County; "four were counted in the Villa Moderne."

Fire destroyed the Villa Moderne on April 24, 1956. "175 patrons escape; $225,000 loss" read the headline on the page 1 Tribune story.

"The blaze broke out about 9 p.m. in a charcoal grill adjacent to the dining room. Employees sought to put it out with fire extinguishers but the flames spread quickly thruout the building," the Tribune reported (using its own unique spelling for "throughout") "At the height of the fire, flames rose 100 feet in the air."

"Extensive" remodeling work was reportedly in progress on the exterior of the building at the time of the blaze. The Villa Modern was described as containing "four dining rooms, one of them upstairs, a lounge, a bar and the kitchens."

The Villa Moderne was rebuilt as a motor hotel just a few years later. A July 1958 story on the project described it as a 100-room, $2.5 million facility to be outfitted with indoor and outdoor swimming pools, a 250-seat restaurant, meeting rooms and a winter ice skating rink. Nearly a year later, the Tribune ran a photograph of the first guests, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wolfson, checking in.

Nancy Webster, archivist with the Highland Park Historical Society, sent me a photograph of a wonderful color postcard of a Villa Moderne room in all its mid-century glory. The back offers this caption: "A New Concept in Luxury Living. Award winning Rooms, each fully Air-conditioned with T.V. and Hi-Fi Suites & Kitchenettes also available. AAA Approved." And, at the bottom of the card, a promise: "Located only 21 Minutes from Chicago's Loop." Online, there's a 1960 advertisement for Libbey glassware features an illustration of the hotel. The headline reads: "At the Villa Moderne Motor Hotel...We want our guests to carry away a 'let's-come-back' impression."

Gustav Allgauer, the famed Chicago area restaurateur, opened a restaurant at the Villa Moderne in 1961, according to his 1972 newspaper obituary. Will Leonard visited for the Tribune and, in a Feb. 26, 1961 column titled "The Changing Scene: Cabarets for Commutersville," he wrote that the emphasis was on food rather than fun in Allgauer's "expansive café." In an October 1963 "Tower Ticker" column by Herb Lyon, Allgauer was credited with assisting in the success of Northwestern University's football team by having the players stay over Friday night and feeding them "jumbo breakfast steaks before kick-off time." Four years later, in May 1967, the Villa Moderne was the site of the Lake Forest woman's club annual spring luncheon. "A Wide World of Song" was the theme, with folk songs from around the world performed.

There the story fades, at least for me. Webster says the Villa Moderne became a Holiday Inn. I'd like to know more about the Villa Moderne and what happened in it and to it over the years. If you have any information, let me know.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

IN THE PROBATE COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF GENESEE

CITY OF FLINT

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF

JOHN SZATMARY also known as JOHN SATZMARE also known as JOHN SATMARE also known as JOHN SATMORE, Deceased.

NO.77189

ORDER ASSIGNING REAL ESTATE TO ELIZABETH JANKOWSKI

ORDER ASSIGNING REAL ESTATE

DATE OF HEARING: June 9, 1982

JUDGE HAROLD E. RESTEINER

Gilbert Y. Rubenstein, Administrator of the Estate, having filed a Petition requesting that the claim of Elizabeth Jankowski, for the payment of taxes on the deceased's property since 1940 thru 1973, be allowed, as well as the payments thereafter, for the benefit of the Administrator to the present date. It further appears to this Court, that the sole asset of this Estate consists of Lots 179 and 180 of Civic Manor, according to the recorded plat thereof, in the City of Flint, County of Genesee, State of Michigan and that the said Elizabeth Jankowski preserved the interest of the deceased in the property by paying the Real Property Taxes since 1940, as well as paying the Real Property Taxes for and and on behalf of the Administrator, during the course of the administration of this Estate. That further, it was represented to this Court by Counsel, that the property was re-appraised in 1981 for $7,800.00, which was the same amount as the original appraisal in 1967. That further, this Court finds that the amount of the taxes, paid by the said Elizabeth Jankowski, totals $8,136.41, and now exceeds the value of the Real estate. The Court has further been advised, that except for Peter Szatmary, all of the other interested parties have assigned their interest, in this estate, to the said, Elizabeth Jankowski. Counsel for the estate has represented to this Court that except for actual costs incurred, the attorney fees would be waived. The Court further finds that all of the interested parties have received notice of this hearing, particularly the said Peter Szatmary, and that the said Peter Szatmary was aware that the property has been for sale, but that he has not offered to purchase the said property.

NOW THEREFORE IT IS;

ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that Gilbert Y. Rubenstein, as the administrator of the Estate, convey to the said Elizabeth Jankowski, in full payment of any and all claims that she may now have or may hereafter have against the estate and that this estate be closed.

John Meszaros (1869-1845) in South Milwaukee

John's birth and marriage records from Hungary are in Volume 1. Here are records from his time in the United States:

Passenger Ship List (1913)
U.S. Census (1940)
Gravestone (1945)

John immigrated to the United States with his daughter Erzsebet (Grammy) in 1913, one year after son Janos arrived with his aunt Julianna, his father's sister.

John is listed only in one census (1940), but his granddaughter, Helen (Szatmary) Papierski believes that he lived with Grammy and her family all the time.

Geography

Szilágy county shared borders with the Hungarian counties Bihar, Szatmár, Szolnok-Doboka and Kolozs. The rivers Szamos and Kraszna flow through the county. Its territory is for a large part the same as that of the present Romanian county Sălaj. Its area was 3815 km² around 1910.

History

Szilágy county was formed in 1876, when the counties of Kraszna (Its center was Valkóváralja at first, later Szilágysomlyó), Közép-Szolnok (Its center was Zilah) and the Egregy district of Doboka County were united.

In 1920 by the Treaty of Trianon the county became part of Romania. It was returned to Hungary by the Second Vienna Award in 1940 and after World War II it became the part again of Romania. Most of it is now part of the Romanian county Sălaj, except some areas in the north-

23rd Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside still waters. He restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me. Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou annoinest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Mine owners enjoy three-way satisfaction from BUCYRUS-ERIES . . . You Can, Too

Like hundreds of mine owners throughout the country in pit operations like these, you can get complete satisfaction from fast-moving, economical, dependable Bucyrus-Erie 38-B and 51-B shovels and draglines. Look over these job pictures; check the material being excavated. Whether stripping overburden or loading ore, Bucyrus-Eries assure you:

High output, through swift dig-swing-dump cycles, smooth flow of power, accurate responsive control.

Low operating cost, proved by month after month of steady production with little downtime for maintenance. Parts are simple, large, few in number . . . engineered to work at capacity without overstress or strain. It all adds up to:

Dependability! Day after day, year after year . . . efficient working ability through careful balance of speed, power and weight.

Start now to enjoy this three-way satisfaction. Let your Bucyrus-Erie distributor give you complete information on these shovels and draglines.

AN UNBEATABLE COMBINATION

This war has proved in a thousand ways the importance of teamwork; teamwork between army, navy and industry, between navy and air force, between artillery and infantry, between a soldier and his gun. Good men with poor equipment haven't been able to stand up to inferior men with better equipment. Good men and good equipment are unbeatable . . . on the fighting fronts, on the air bases, in the shipyards, in the quarries, in the metal mines, in the coal mines.

Experience and reputation in designing and building outstanding excavating equipment led to the selection of Bucyrus-Erie to work with the Army on the design and manufacture of the new 240-mm. howitzer, now in action. We're proud of that selection and of the phenomenal accuracy this weapon is demonstrating in battle. The same factors that make this largest U. S. mobile gun a leader, make your Bucyrus-Erie excavators "years ahead." In this war, all over the world, Bucyrus-Erie excavators, in the hands of good men, are shattering old production records. Post-war Bucyrus-Eries in the hands of your men will be an unbeatable combination.

Bucyrus-Erie

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Bucyrus-Erie was an American surface and underground mining equipment company. It was founded as Bucyrus Foundry and Manufacturing Company in Bucyrus, Ohio in 1880. Bucyrus moved its headquarters to South Milwaukee, Wisconsin in 1893. In 1927, Bucyrus merged with the Erie Steam Shovel Company to form Bucyrus-Erie.

Renamed Bucyrus International, Inc. in 1997, it was purchased by Caterpillar Inc. in a US$7.6 billion[7] ($8.6 billion including net debt) transaction that closed on July 8, 2011. At the time of its acquisition, the Bucyrus product line included a range of material removal and material handling products used in both surface and underground mining.

History

1880-1927

Bucyrus was an early producer of steam shovels, operating from its Bucyrus, Ohio headquarters and manufacturing facility. In 1893, Bucyrus moved its operations to South Milwaukee, Wisconsin.[8]

In 1904 Bucyrus supplied 77 of the 102 steam shovels used to dig the Panama Canal.[9] These were ninety-five-ton models with five-cubic-yard buckets that could move approximately eight tons of material at once. They were operated by a crew of four. Similar to a locomotive, the crew was headed by a engineer, and included two firemen who stoked the boiler with coal, and a craneman. A support crew on the ground of six men extended the rails on which the shovel moved as the digging progressed. A famous photograph of President Theodore Roosevelt was taken in November 1906 operating a Bucyrus shovel in Panama during his inspection trip to the canal. In March 1910, a single Bucyrus shovel excavated 70,000 cubic yards over twenty-six consecutive days at the Culebra cut, setting a canal construction record. Each shovel averaged more than 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth excavated at the cut.[10]

1927-1980

The company changed its name to Bucyrus-Erie in 1927 when it merged with the Erie Steam Shovel Company, the country's leading manufacturer of small excavators at that time.

In 1930 Bucyrus joined with the English firm of Ruston & Hornsby Ltd Lincoln, England, to form the Ruston-Bucyrus Ltd firm in England. Ruston & Hornsby Ltd were the pre-eminent manufacturers of steam excavators at the time, having started in 1874; the merger gave the company access to previously unavailable world markets.

1980-2011

Ruston & Hornsby Ltd sold their share in Ruston-Bucyrus in 1985, during a period of recession and consolidation in the mining industry, as they divested themselves of non-core businesses to survive.

For a time in the 1980s the company was known as Becor Western following its merger with Western Gear.

On February 18, 1994, Bucyrus-Erie filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy, and remained under bankruptcy protection until December 14, 1994.[11]

The company took its current name, Bucyrus International, Inc. in 1997.

Bucyrus built hundreds of large mining machines, as well as construction equipment, in an intense competition against competitor Marion Power Shovel. Bucyrus acquired Marion Power Shovel in 1997.

On May 4, 2007, Bucyrus completed the acquisition of the DBT Group, a Lunen, Germany based manufacturer of underground mining equipment, from RAG Coal International AG of Herne, Germany. Bucyrus acquired DBT because DBT's underground mining equipment complemented Bucyrus' surface mining products.

In February 2010, Bucyrus International completed a US $1.3 billion acquisition of the mining equipment division of Terex Corporation.[12]

On November 15, 2010, Bucyrus agreed to be acquired by Caterpillar in a transaction valued at US$8.6 billion. Caterpillar said it intended to create a new mining business headquarters at the former Bucyrus headquarters location in South Milwaukee. The transaction closed in mid-2011.[13]

The Intellectual Property Rights for Bucyrus Erie cranes was acquired by Sparrows Group which has crane manufacturing operations based in Houston, Texas [14]

Products

Bucyrus owned the Bucyrus, Bucyrus-Erie, Marion, and Ransomes & Rapier brands and provided OEM parts and support services for machinery which bears those brands.[15]

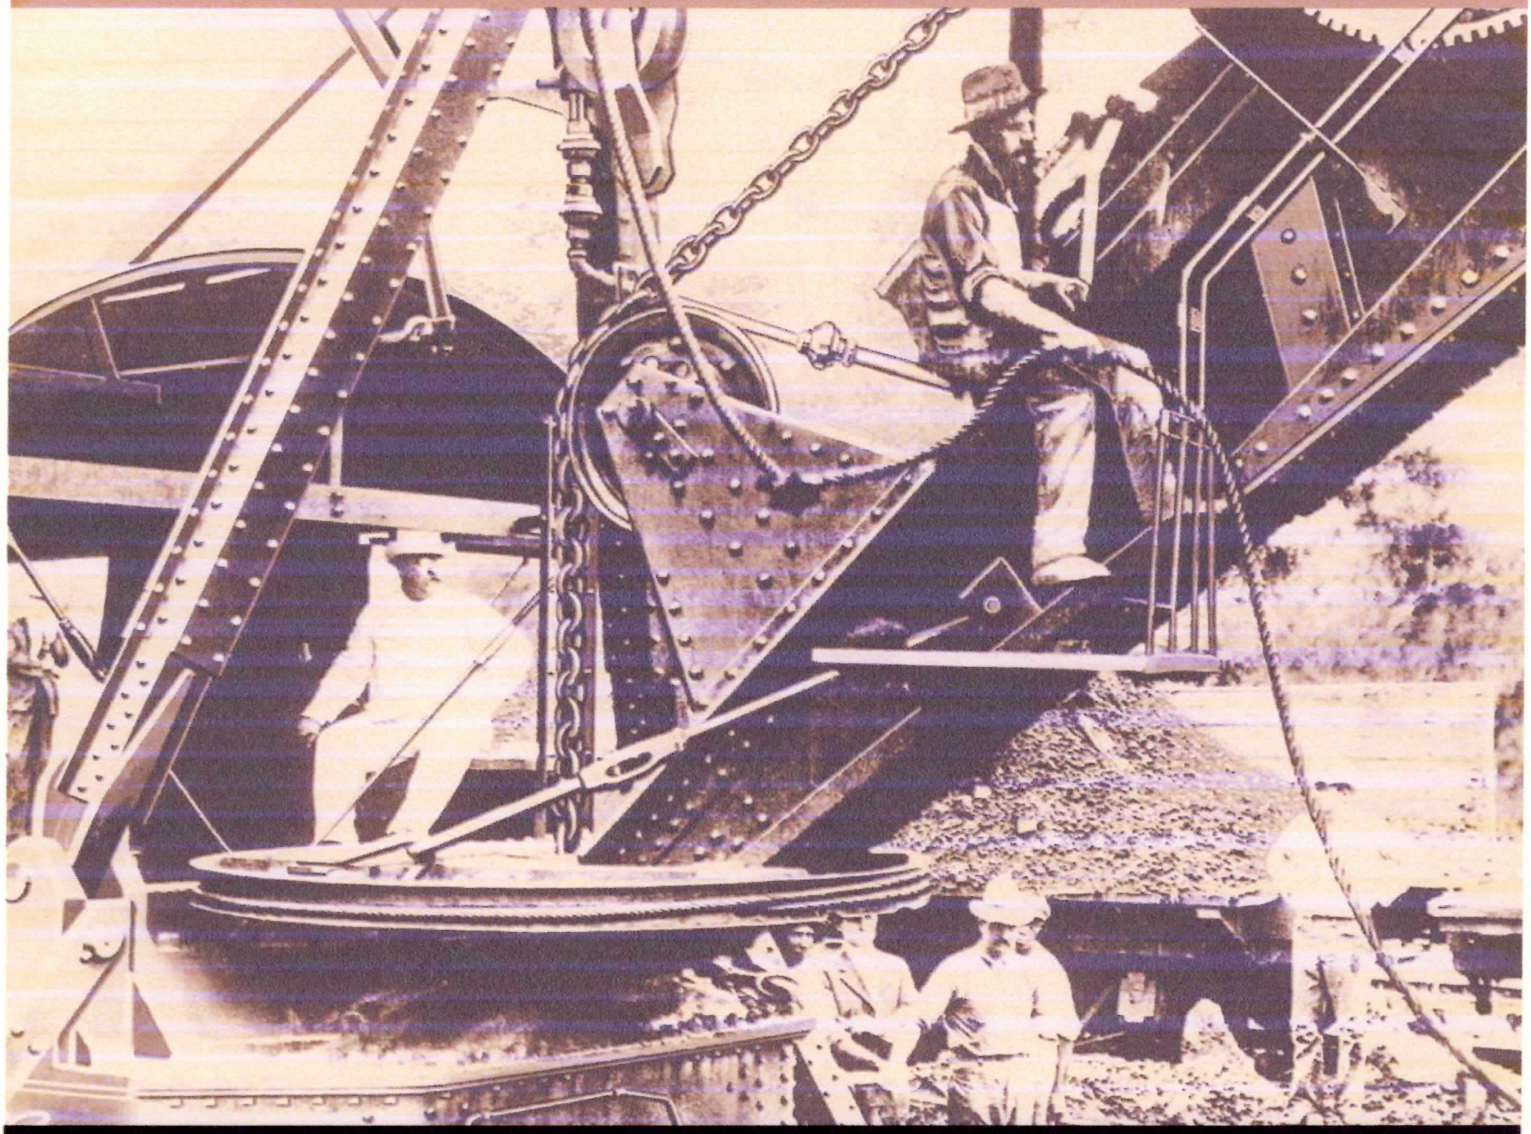
Historical

- 4250-W walking dragline, also known as Big Muskie, was built in 1969, with a 220-cubic-yard (170 m^3) bucket and weighed 13,000 metric tons. Big Muskie's 220-cubic-yard (170 m^3) bucket is currently sitting outside McConnellsville, Ohio in a small park dedicated to coal mining.
- Two 3850-B stripping shovels built in 1962 and 1964, with bucket capacities of 115 and 145 cu yd (88 and 111 m^3).
- The 2570-W or WS, one of B-E's most popular dragline models with bucket capacities between 120 and 160 cu yd (92 and 122 m^3).
- The Silver Spade and its twin the GEM of Egypt, 1950B Stripping shovels, was built in 1965 and 1967 respectively, with a bucket capacity of 80 m^3 (100 cu yd).The Silver Spade was scrapped in 2007. Many videos can be seen of it working thru Bennetshovel on Youtube.com
- The Stripping shovel Big Brutus a 1850-B was built in 1962, with a 90-yard bucket. It currently sits in West Mineral, Kansas as the huge centerpiece of a museum.
- The Bucyrus-Erie 50-R, a 55-foot high behemoth rising 11-stories tall and housing a massive drill was responsible for the successful rescue of two miners during the 1963 Sheppton, Pennsylvania mining disaster. [16]
- The 1250-B/W and 1260-W walking draglines, with buckets between 33 and 45 cu yd (25 and 34 m^3).
- The 5-W walking dragline, carrying a 5-cubic-yard (3.8 m^3) bucket and produced until around 1970;
- Marion Power Shovel Company of Marion, Ohio designed the crawler transporter used to carry Saturn V rockets and Space Shuttles to their launch pads.

Management

Well known as a national and international concern,[17] Bucyrus was noted for the long service of many of its employees.

The Bucyrus Legacy



BUCYRUS

The Early Years

In 1880, Daniel P. Eells brought together relatives and business associates with the intention of forming a new manufacturing facility. Founded in Bucyrus, Ohio, the Bucyrus Foundry and Manufacturing Company was born "to carry on the business of a foundry and of manufacturing machinery and railroad cars…"

Since June 3, 1882 when the first Bucyrus Foundry and Manufacturing Company railroad steam shovel was shipped to the Northern Pacific Railroad, the name Bucyrus has been synonymous with excavating machinery. In 1883 Bucyrus shipped its first dipper dredge. By 1889, Bucyrus was able to boast in a company catalog "We have by far the largest and best equipped shops in the country for the manufacture of steam shovels and dredges."

In 1893, Bucyrus had outgrown its Ohio facility and moved their operations to its current location in South Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The company took on a new name of Bucyrus Steam Shovel and Dredge Company of Wisconsin. In 1896 the company reorganized and became The Bucyrus Company. It was during this time that management determined that it was the large, special-purpose-excavating machines that drove the company's progress and were best suited to Bucyrus' resources.

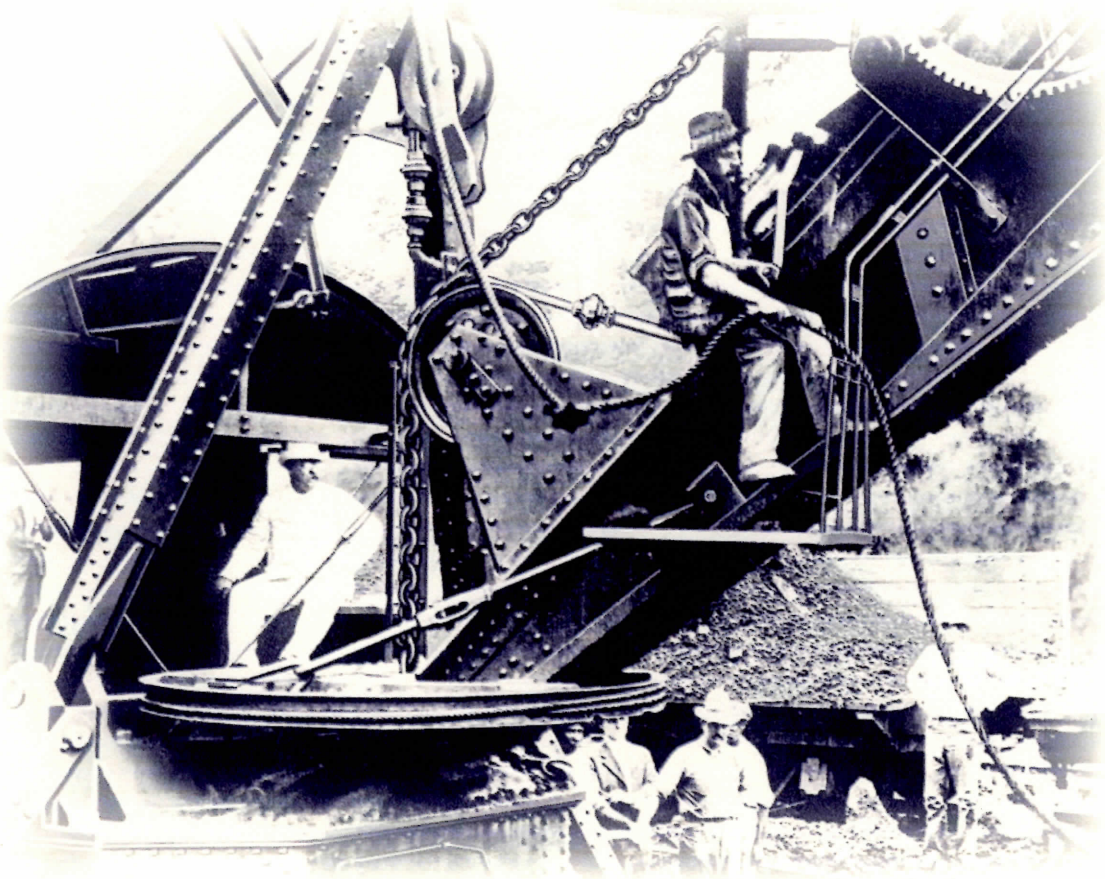
Early Excavation Endeavors

By 1894 Bucyrus had sold 171 shovels. Twenty-four Bucyrus shovels were used to dig the Chicago Drainage Canal. It was also during this time that mining overtook railroad building as the major large sized shovel market. Bucyrus' reputation continued to grow as the company continued to participate in major excavation projects across the United States. Bucyrus built placer dredges for the California gold fields; shovels for the vast Mesabi Iron Ranges; and dredges for enlargement of the New York State Barge Canal, the largest earth-moving project in the U.S. between 1902-1912.

Bucyrus shovels were instrumental in the excavation of the Panama Canal, one of the largest excavation projects of the early 20th century. Seventy-seven Bucyrus shovels and 24 Marion shovels helped remove more than 172 million cubic meters (225 million cubic yards) of dirt in order to create this important waterway between 1904 and 1914. In 1908, former U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt climbed aboard a Bucyrus 86,000-kilogram (95-ton) shovel on an inspection trip to the canal.



Exploring New Ground

In 1910 Bucyrus entered the dragline market with the purchase of manufacturing rights for the Heyworth-Newman dragline excavator. In 1912, Bucyrus helped pioneer the use of electricity as a power source for large stripping shovels and draglines used in mining. The model "Class 14" dragline was introduced as the first crawler mounted dragline. Over 370 of the Class series draglines were produced from 1911 to 1937. It was also during this time that Bucyrus first became a publicly owned company. By 1925, Bucyrus had become the leading manufacturer of excavation equipment in the industry.

A close cousin to the dragline, tower excavators, were introduced in 1915 and were specifically designed for construction of levees along the lower Mississippi River. Thirty-three tower excavators were built until the saturated product line was discontinued in 1931.

In 1908, the first Heyworth dragline was built for the Chicago sanitary district channel.

Pivotal Mergers

In 1911 the Bucyrus Co., Atlantic Equipment Co. and Vulcan Steam Shovel Co. merged to become "Bucyrus Company", a public corporation. This marked the end of the Bucyrus organization as a family corporation.

As a result of the Vulcan purchase, the first fully revolving shovels to carry the Bucyrus name, Models 14B and 18B steamers, were produced. The 120B was introduced in 1925 as the first heavy duty, fully revolving, caterpillar (crawler) mounted loading shovel. The last of this model is still operating in a mine in Eastern Canada.

In 1927, Bucyrus merged with the Erie Steam Shovel Company. The Erie Steam Shovel Company was the country's leading manufacturer of small excavators, with a history as rich as Bucyrus. A description of the newly named company, Bucyrus-Erie Company, appeared on the New York Stock Exchange. Their focus was "...to bring together under one management, manufacturing plants, the products of which naturally supplement one another in the field of excavating machinery, by establishing a company handling power shovels, and other machinery for excavating and handling materials, of a number of sizes with the ability to sell these products with increased economy and efficiency, especially in foreign markets."

In 1930, Bucyrus-Erie joined with Ruston & Hornsby, Ltd., the foremost company in the British excavating-machinery industry, to form Ruston-Bucyrus, Limited. This enabled Bucyrus to expand internationally.

In 1913, Oscar Martinson, of the Monighan Machine Company of Chicago, patented the "Martinson Tractor Drive" to create the first walking dragline. In 1931, Bucyrus purchased the Monighan Walking Dragline Company of Chicago, Illinois and changed its name to Bucyrus-Monighan Company.

In 1941, the Bucyrus-Monighan dragline, model 15W. (above)

Product Line Expansion

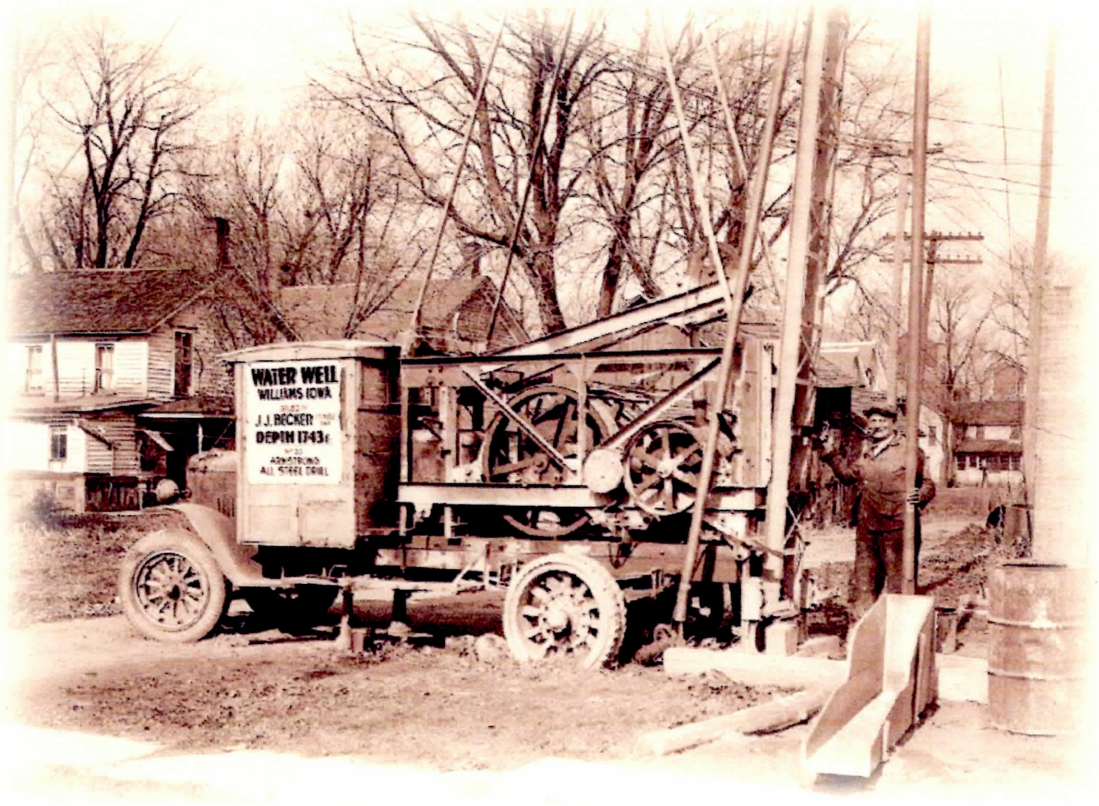
Between 1931 and 1939, Bucyrus' product line expanded to include walking draglines, drills and tractor equipment.

In 1933 Bucyrus first entered the drill market by acquiring the manufacturing rights to the Armstrong Drill product line. The acquisition included drill tools, bit dressers and the highly successful line of churn drills for water well and blast hole work. From 1933 to 1943 Bucyrus manufactured these products under the "BUCYRUS-ARMSTRONG" name.

By 1939, total annual shipments of the newly expanded product line had risen to 50 percent of the company's older lines, contributing to earnings in every year since inception. Sales of these machines increased and the future looked promising.

With the outbreak of World War II, Bucyrus experienced a greater demand for excavators. Virtually the entire production from 1942 to 1945 was devoted to the war. This allowed Bucyrus to expand its regular product line for civilian purchases, production of its regular line for the Government, and the design and production of special ordinance equipment, specifically gun carriages.

Following the war, Bucyrus invested $2 million in an expansion program that increased plant capacity. Through the purchase of other companies and their patents, Bucyrus continued to expand its product line to include contractor-size cranes and excavators, and all-hydraulic truck cranes.



Key Drill Initiatives

In 1946, Bucyrus developed the 42T, the first Bucyrus churn drill with hydraulic leveling jacks. The product line was successful beyond imagination. 11,600 churn drills were sold up to 1984; many of them still in worldwide use today.

In 1952, Bucyrus introduced the 50R, the first commercially accepted large diameter rotary blasthole drill used in the mining industry. The 50R achieved national fame in 1963 when it was instrumental in rescuing two trapped coal miners in the underground Sheppton Mine at Hazelton, PA. This machine, normally used to drill 12-1/4" holes 100 feet deep, produced a 330 foot, 18" diameter rescue hole.

In the 1960s, new explosives requiring larger drill holes were introduced in the mining industry. The 45R and 60R drill models were developed to meet this need. The larger, more efficiently produced blast holes, combined with the more effective blasting agents resulted in greater blasting productivity.

Big Muskie

A significant accomplishment was the manufacture of the Big Muskie. Built in 1969, the 168 cubic meter (220 cubic yard) walking dragline was the largest mobile earth-moving machine ever built. The hydraulic walking mechanism produced a walking speed of 274 meters (900 feet) per hour. The sheer magnitude of draglines continues to amaze people and the Big Muskie was no exception. Nearly 22 stories high, with a length of about 140 meters (459 feet) and with a bucket as large as a 12-car garage, the machine operated in the Muskingum mine in eastern Ohio for several years. Although the Big Muskie was scrapped in 2000, the bucket is currently on display in a park in Ohio.

Continued Success

The decades that followed brought continued success and increased product lines for Bucyrus. During the 1970s, demand for draglines was high as a result of the oil embargo. In 1980, the first electric mining shovel equipped with AC was introduced as the 395B.

During the mid 1980s, three massive 67R's were shipped to Australia. They constitute the largest drills of the product line. In 1986, the 49R blasthole drill was introduced. It is today the premier large blasthole drill on the market. The 59R, used in Taconite drilling operations, is the largest blasthole drill product in current production. Bucyrus has produced well over 13,000 drills since 1933.

Bucyrus continued its acquisition of key companies that would contribute to overall success in the dragline market. In 1988, Bucyrus acquired the dragline assets of Ransomes & Rapier Ltd. of England, permitting greater participation in the Indian market. Ransomes & Rapier was a significant contributor in the history of dragline manufacturing.

In 1990, Bucyrus was successful in placing a 2570WS at Black Thunder Mine in the USA. This 6.3 million kilograms (14 million pounds) machine offered updated engineering design throughout and introduced AC Motors to large excavators.

Bucyrus' drill mast design expertise and analysis capabilities were utilized under contract in 1991 to help produce a special one-of-a-kind drill utilized by the U.S. Department of Energy at the Yucca Mountain Nevada Test Site. The latest entry into the product line is the unique 39HR. Its round mast tubes arranged in a triangular fashion form an inherently sound structure.

In 1997 Bucyrus acquired Marion Power Shovel Company, the second largest (Bucyrus being the largest) supplier of draglines in the industry. This acquisition broadened Bucyrus' product line, added over 120 operating draglines to our fleet and enabled Bucyrus to gain a wealth of technical data relative to design concepts and historical performance of the Marion machine designs. The Marion 351M became the 595 and coupled with the very successful 495 series shovels place Bucyrus in an ideal position to satisfy customer requirements for large capacity loading tools.

During 1999 and 2000, Bucyrus produced another 2570WS dragline which was shipped and erected in Australia. Weighing 7.25 million kilograms (16 million pounds), 126 meters (414 feet) long, 110 meter (360 foot) boom, 72 meters (238 feet) high and with a 119 cubic meter (156 cubic yard) bucket, this is currently the world's largest operating dragline.

A Global Leader in Excavation Equipment

Reflecting the increased global nature of the business, in 1996 Bucyrus-Erie changed its name to Bucyrus International, Inc. With over 75% of sales and service performed overseas, Bucyrus has established itself as an international leader in excavation equipment manufacturing. International subsidiaries are located within South Africa, Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Europe, India and Peru. There are also various locations throughout the United States supporting the sales and service needs of customers worldwide.

Since 1910, over 60 different dragline models have been made, with total weights of shipped dragline product exceeding 816 million kilograms (1.8 billion pounds). Bucyrus has built well over 1100 draglines. Today's draglines are primarily stripping machines, removing great quantities of material to gain access to underlying coal and mineral deposits. Bucyrus is proud to celebrate over 90 years of dragline manufacturing.

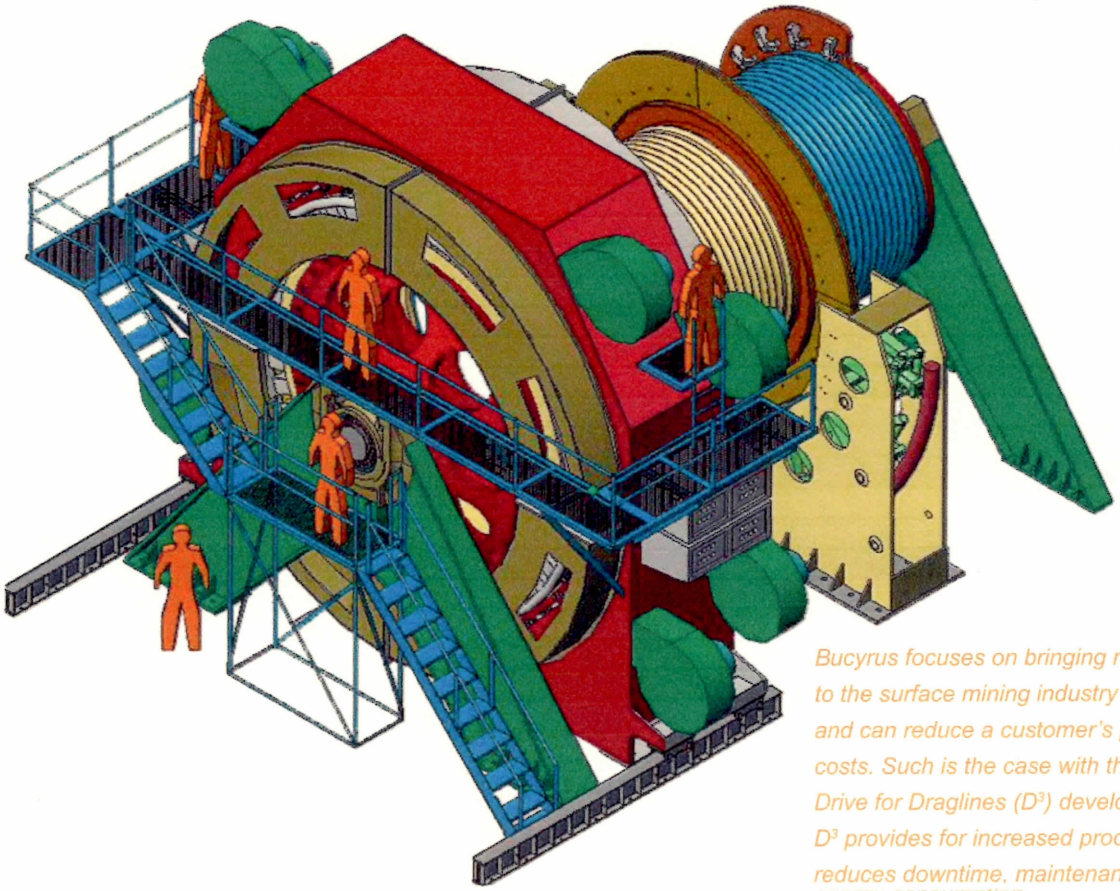
Bucyrus has directly produced over 32,000 excavating machines. That number does not include those produced by the Marion, Osgood, General Excavator, Quick-Way, Atlantic, Vulcan, Ball Engine, or Erie companies prior to their associations with Bucyrus; nor does this include the tremendous output of Ruston-Bucyrus. These firms add another 50,000 to 70,000 machines to the total! The combined excavator design and manufacturing expertise totals more than 600 years.

Commissioned in December 2004, the BNI 8200 dragline is the largest Bucyrus dragline installed since the commissioning of a 2570WS dragline in Australia in 2000.

Moving Forward

Throughout company history, Bucyrus has led the industry in innovative products designed to satisfy the world's toughest earthmoving requirements. Research and development efforts continue to add new products and improve established product lines with a focus on reducing the customer's cost per ton of material moved.

Today, with 125 years of experience, Bucyrus continues to meet the needs of surface mining customers worldwide with leading technology products, high-quality OEM parts and dedicated service professionals to ensure the optimum in machine productivity and dependability.



Bucyrus focuses on bringing new technologies to the surface mining industry that add value and can reduce a customer's production costs. Such is the case with the new Direct Drive for Draglines (D^3) development program. D^3 provides for increased productivity and reduces downtime, maintenance costs and energy consumption.

1880 - Bucyrus Foundry and Manufacturing Company forms in Bucyrus, Ohio.
1882 - First railroad style (non-rotating) steam shovel is built.
1893 - Move to South Milwaukee, WI, incorporated as the Bucyrus Steam Shovel & Dredge Company of WI.
1894 - First successful electric excavating machine produced, a placer dredge.
1895 - Reorganize as The Bucyrus Company.
1904 - Supply 77 of the 102 steam shovels used to dig the Panama Canal, Marion provided 24.
1910 - Enter dragline market through purchase of manufacturing rights for the Heyworth-Newman dragline excavator.
1912 - Model "Class 14" dragline introduced, the first crawler mounted dragline.
1927 - Consolidate with the Erie Steam Shovel Company to form Bucyrus-Erie.
1933 - Enter the drill market through acquisition of the Armstrong Drill product line.
1935 - Rope crowd first introduced, on a stripping shovel.
1942 - 60% of the output goes to the government for the War effort, until 1945.
1952 - First Rotary Blasthole Drill introduced.
1969 - "Big Muskie" starts operation, the largest dragline ever built.
1980 - Bucyrus celebrates 100th Anniversary.
1981 - 1st 395B electric mining shovel with AC electric power system.
1983 - 680W modular walking dragline with all AC drives introduced.
1983 - First 400 foot boom introduced on 2570W dragline.

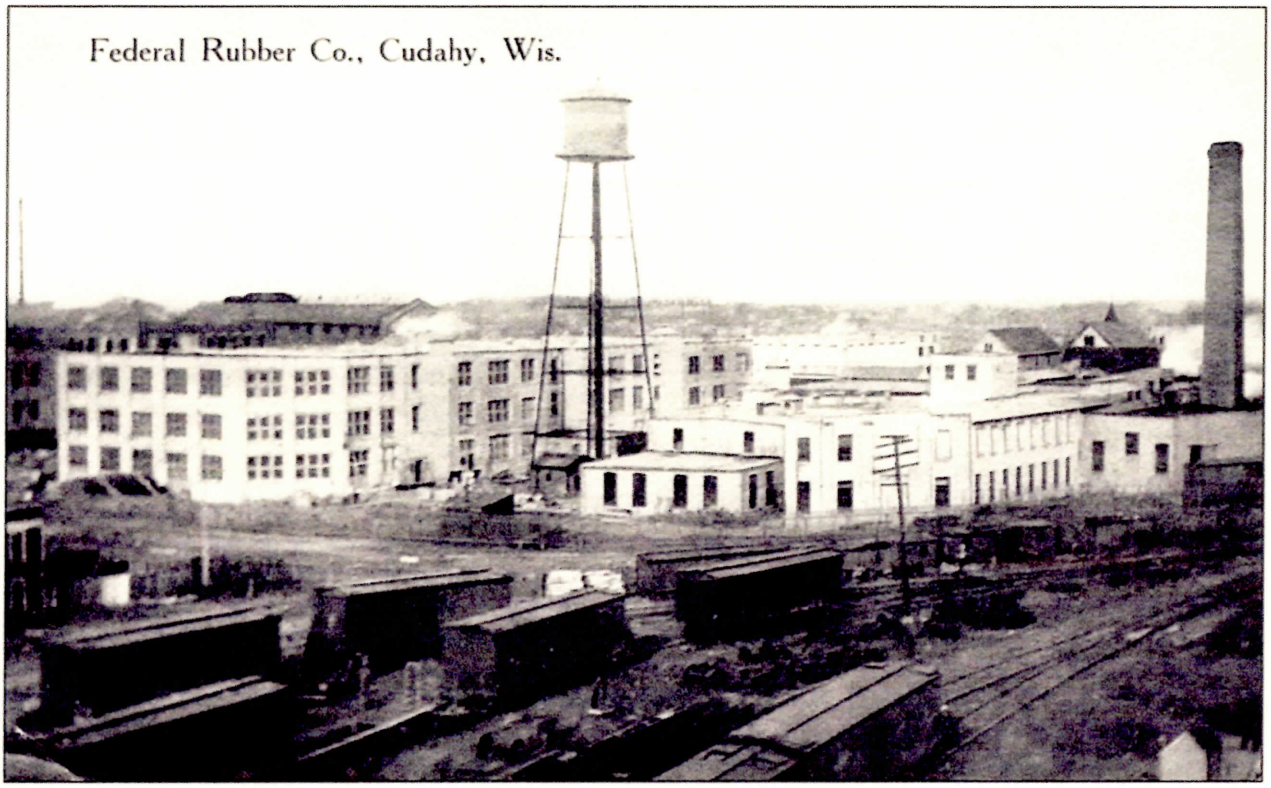
Ambrose Raphael (center) and an unidentified coworker lower filled tire molds into the heater for vulcanization in this 1920 photograph from Federal Rubber. The company was one of the most modern tire plants in the country when its parent company, Fisk Rubber Company, went bankrupt in 1929. Over 1,200 employees lost their high-paying jobs. The equipment, buildings, and 50 acres of land were sold at auction in 1933.



The Federal Rubber Company produced rubber tires, inner tubes, hoses, and even gas masks during World War I. The headquarters and manufacturing plant were located in Cudahy, with nationwide distributorships. The company was one of the city's major employers, with over 1,500 workers manufacturing 18,000 tires a day by the late 1920s. Employee camaraderie, a variety of social activities, and high wages made it a desirable place to work.

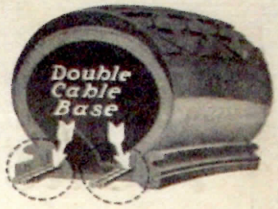
FEDERAL
Double Cable Base Tires



EXCLUSIVE

Today car owners expect unusual tire service. One of the exclusive Federal features that enable Federal tires to exceed service expectations is the Double-Cable-Base.

Four unstretchable steel cables anchor the tire on the rim securely against rocking or shifting under hardest usage. They lengthen tire life by preventing tube pinching, rim cutting, slipping, side wall chafing and blowouts above rim.

All Federal tires, including black "Traffik" Tread, and white non-skid "Rugged" Tread, have this exclusive feature.

FEDERAL

Bicycle Tires

FEDERALS are just plain "husky" through and through. You can count on them every time in a race because they seem to put "pep" into your bike. Look at their thick treads, tough and practically oil and puncture proof. No wonder Federals are favorites with boys who use their bicycles for either work or play. Try them.
